Women, Caste and Reform

- HISTORY
 - CLASS VIII
 - CHAPTER 8
- MODULE II

- (i) Social reformers criticized caste inequalities. Paramhans Mandali was founded in 1840 in Bombay to work for the abolition of caste.
- (ii) The Prarthana Samaj adhered to the tradition of Bhakti that believed in spiritual equality of all castes.
- (iii) Christians missionaries began setting up schools for the tribal groups and 'lower'-caste children.
- (iv) There were availability of jobs in cities in factories. Many poor people from the villages & small towns who belonged to low castes got the jobs as labour.

Caste and Social Reform:

- (v) The work was hard enough. But the poor had got a chance to get away from the control of upper-castes landowners who exercised daily humiliation over them.
- (vi) Army was another option in jobs. A number of Mahar people, who were regarded as untouchables, found jobs in the Mahar Regiment.

- (i) By the second half of the 19th century, people from within the 'lower' castes began organizing movements against caste discrimination and demanded social equality and justice.
- (ii) The Satnami movement in Central India was founded by Ghasidas who came from a low caste, organised a movement to improve their social status.
- (iii) In eastern Bengal, Haridas Thakur's Matua sect worked among low caste; Chandala cultivators. Haridas questioned Brahmanical texts that supported the caste system.
- (iv) Shri Narayan Guru, a guru from Ezhava caste given his views on caste system as "one caste. one religion, one god for humankind".

Gulamgiri

- (i) Jyotirao Phule, born in 1827 was known as one of the 'low-caste' leaders.
- (ii) He attacked the Brahmans claim that they were superior to other, since they were Aryans.
- (iii) According to Phule, the 'upper' caste had no right to their land and power, the land belonged to indigenous people who were called as low castes.
- (iv) Phule proposed that Shudras and Ati Shudras should unite to challenge caste discrimination.

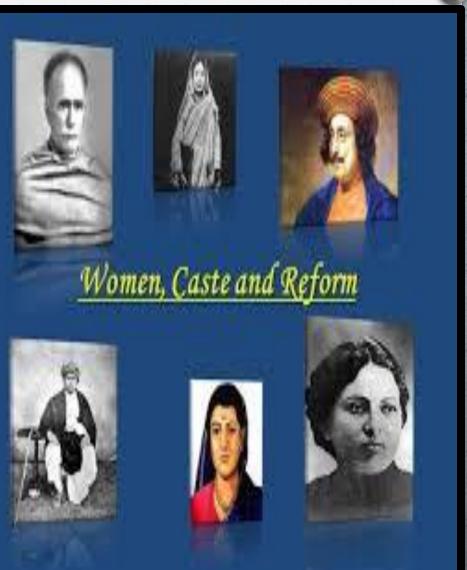

Gulamgiri

- (v) The Satyashodhak Samaj was founded by Phule to propagate caste equality.
- (vi) Phule wrote a book named "Gulamgiri", meaning slavery. He established a link between the conditions of the "lower" castes in India & the black slaves in America. (vii) In 20th century, the movement for caste reform was
- continued by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker.

Who Could enter Temples:

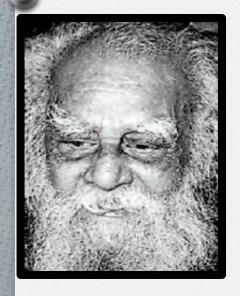

- (i) Ambedkar was born into a Mahar family. As a child he experienced caste prejudice; In school, he was forced to sit outside the classroom on the ground & was not allowed to drink water from taps that upper-caste children used.
- (ii) In 1919, when he came back from the USA, he wrote about "upper" caste power in contemporary society.
- (iii) In 1927, Ambedkar started a temple entry movement. His aim was to make everyone see the power of caste prejudices within the society.

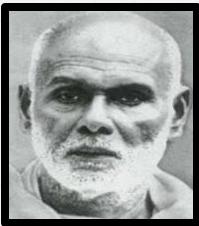

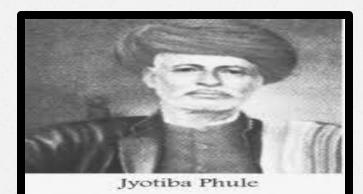

- (i) The Non-Brahman Movement in the early 20th century was initiated by non-Brahman castes that had acquired access to education, wealth and influence. They challenged Brahmanical claims to power.
- (ii) E.V. Ramaswamy Naicker, known as Periyar was from middle-class family. He founded the Self Respect Movement.

- (iv) He inspired the untouchables and asked them to free themselves from all religions in order to achieve social equality.
- (v) Periyar was an outspoken critic of Hindu scriptures.
- (vi) The forceful speeches, writings and movements of lower caste leaders led to rethink and self-criticism among upper caste nationalist leaders.
